

Timothy also applauded the mastery of his audio engineer, Jason Dsouza, saying, "All the songs were mixed and mastered by Jason D'Souza, who really brought it to life with his touch." We got in touch with Jason, a regular name on the credit list of our music features on TFword, to gather his thoughts about working with Timothy and the EP. "Working with Timothy was great. He was crystal clear about how he wanted to sound and the entire project went by smoothly," says Jason...(read more)

Jason D'souza is among Mumbai's sought-after indie producers, best known for his work on pop-rock band The Colour Compound's 2011 debut EP Sincerely Yours and punk rockers The Lightyears Explode's 2013 debut album The Revenge of Kalicharan. D'souza who also plays guitar for alt rock band The Koniac Net, produced the group's debut album One Last Monsoon in 2012.....(read more)